

Michael Ioannides was born in Nicosia. He studied Economics Accounting and Finance at the London School of Economics and Political Science and Business Administration at the City University of London. He was the Managing Director of Linette, a Cypriot company which manufactures baby and adult diapers. He was the chairman of Apoel Football Club and the founder of the company Apoel Football Ltd.